Bridge, Dancing, Glacier Trip Top Recreation Plans

An eventful week of summer session recreation continued last night as Mrs. Elsie Flaherty conducted free bridge lessons in the Copper room of the Student Union.

The bridge lessons, offered each Wednesday night from 7:30 until 10 o'clock, are designed to help the beginner to get a fundamental understanding of the game and to provide expert instruction for improvement for more advanced players.

The recreational program continues tonight with Latin American dancing in the Bitterroot room of the Student Union. Free dancing lessons, including the tango, rhumba, samba, and conga, will be under the direction of Mrs. John Lester. Hours during which lessons are offered are from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

Square Dancing Saturday

Saturday night, the Gold room of the Student Union will be used for square dancing. Prof. Charles Hertler and Mrs. Jim Galen will be on hand to provide instruction and direction from 8:30 to midnight.

Ed Wright, recreation director for the summer session, has asked all persons interested in taking the Glacier National park trip over the Fourth of July week end to sign up either in his office or in Cyril Van Duser's office. Those intending to make the trip must sign up tomorrow, as transportation facilities must be secured.

Apparently summer session students are not as interested in the proposed trip to Yellowstone park, so that plan may have to be dropped, Mr. Wright said.

If enough interest is shown, a week-end sojourn to Virginia City, a tourist attraction of pioneer relics and old-time buildings, will be (please see page three)

Professor Harris Cancels Institute

The Social Work Institute originally scheduled for today and tomorrow will not be held this year, according to Asst. Prof. John Harris.

Professor Harris said that it was not possible to carry out the extensive advance planning required for a successful institute this year. It is hoped that circumstances next year will permit the resumption of this feature of the summer session program.

Workshop To Produce Two Operas

Students will be able to attend the daily rehearsals and receive instruction in opera techniques as well as take the parts in two operas to be produced under the direction of John Lester, professor of music.

The operas will be presented as a part of the Opera Workshop, scheduled to begin July 28.

The operas, Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley," and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury," will feature three former MSU singers in the lead roles. Neil Dahlstrom and George Lewis appeared in the University production of the "Barber of Seville," and James Cole sang in "La Boheme" this spring.

"Down in the Valley" is a dramatic and melodious opera based on native American folk tunes. "Trial by Jury" is an amusing satire on the court.

Mr. Lester, vocal director of the highly successful production of "La Boheme" this spring, will be assisted by Prof. Lloyd Oakland, director of choral music, Asst. Prof. Stanley K. Hamilton, university theater director, and David Weiss, drama instructor and technical director of the University theater.

Hummel, Abel Joint Recital Tonight

J. George Hummel, piano, and Paul Louis Abel, trumpet, will present a joint faculty recital this evening at 8:15 in the Student Union auditorium. Mrs. Bernice Ramskill will accompany Mr. Abel.

The program will consist of five parts and will last around an hour and fifteen minutes. The first part will consist of a piano interpretation by Mr. Hummel of Beethoven's "Sonata, Op. 10, No. 1." The second part will be a series of three trumpet solos by Mr. Abel. The first will be Bach's "Prelude in E Flat Major—Book 11, Well-Tempered Clavier." The second will be a piece by the celebrated French clarinetist Arban, "The Beautiful Snow." The third will be another Arban piece, "Cavatina and Variations."

Chopin

Mr. Hummel will take over the third part with two pieces from Chopin, "Nocturne, Op. 15, No. 2," "Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 1." The Polonaise is a Polish processional which brings out the nationalistic feeling that is found in many of Chopin's works.

After an intermission Mr. Hummel will play the fourth part of the program. A piece by Schumann, "Viennese Carnival Pranks," which is one of Schumann's earlier works in five parts. Mr. Hummel will play the second, "Romance," the third, "Scherzino," and the fourth, "Intermezzo." He then will (please see page four)

Screen Stars 'Talk Shop' For Students

Undaunted by the damp Montana weather, screen stars Donna Reed and Robert Wagner, and Producer-director David Diamond arrived on schedule Tuesday night at the Student Union lounge for an informal reception with summer students, faculty members, and Missoula townspeople.

The movie personalities were received at the Student Union by Cyril Van Duser, Student Union manager, and Ed Wright, summer session recreation director.

In the discussion of the "Hollywood community" that followed the arrival of the stars, Miss Reed told of her reluctance at the start of her screen career to "become a member of the Hollywood community." She said she was not enthusiastic about going into the movie making industry because of the picture which had been drawn in her mind of Hollywood and life there.

"But after living there for several years, she has changed her mind." (please see page three)

Visual Education Starts Here . . .

Lecturing to a special business education workshop class is Dr. E. Dana Gibson of San Diego State college, who is conducting a one-week course in visual aids. Another part of the course is work dealing with distributive education, taught by Louise Bernard, supervisor of distributive education in Virginia. Both are national leaders in their special fields of business education.

Weakness and Solution . .

One growing weakness of the American people is that they do not read many books, mainly because they have so many others forms of entertainment available. Not because it has reached any drastic point of cultural advancement, but because most of us are missing another good form of entertainment, it might possibly be an issue worth a little thought.

Here at MSU, there is one very good method of creating higher book-readership which has not been put to use; That being one the armed forces know to be successful—Pocket Book libraries.

There can be no argument as to content quality of pocket books as writings from the Bible to Hemingway see print in the complete-but-miniature pocket sized books.

What effect would pocket book libraries have in our dormitories? It would be a simple solution for the student who had a free evening, but not the ambition to stroll to the University library to browse through thousands of cards to find an enjoyable reading book.

Such a step would require about $50 of funds from each dormitory to acquire their initial stock, and about $5 worth of new books each month to keep their shelves full. This would mean an initial stock of 200 books, with 20 new ones coming in each month, for each dorm library.

The "pocket book libraries" would not have to be libraries in the sense that the students would have to check the books out, but merely a stack of good reading books kept on shelves in some corner of the dormitory lounges for the students to help themselves to.—T.H.

Sun Asks Readers To Make Use of Free Class Ads

A relatively little-known but important feature of the Summer Session Sun will be the free classified ad section that will appear in subsequent issues of the paper.

Since the Sun is a strictly non-profit organization, it does not take any non-student advertising. As a special service to students the Sun will accept want ads, but in keeping with the non-profit idea, can't charge for these ads.

No ads for a business will be accepted. The contributor of the ad must be a student, and the offer must be a legitimate offer or request for goods or services that would be of interest to the summer faculty or students.

The Sun invites readers to take advantage of this opportunity to buy, sell or trade goods or services free of charge, and offer or seek rides, so send in your class ads early to avoid the rush!

SHUTTERBUG CONTEST FOR SUMMER STUDENTS

The amateur photographers of the summer session students will have a chance to get a picture published in the Sun a month from now in a photo contest for pictures depicting life at summer school. The three top pictures, judged by members of the Sun staff, will be published in the July 24 edition of the Sun.

Prints turned in for the contest may be any size between 5x7 and 8x10 inches, and may be printed on glossy or matte paper. The processing work does not have to be done by the entrant, and there is no limit to the number of prints that may be turned in.

Pictures for the contest may be left in J-206, the Sun newsroom, between now and July 17, and should have the entrant's name clearly printed on the back of the prints.

Two Parts Left in Show Will Be Cast Friday at 3

All but two of the cast of nine for the summer production "The Hasty Heart" were selected Tuesday night, according to Stanley K. Hamilton, university theater director. Readings for the two remaining male parts will take place in Simpkins Little theater at 3 Friday afternoon, he said.

"The Hasty Heart," a three-act comedy drama dealing with a group of eight soldiers and a nurse during World War II, is a story of human relations during the war, Hamilton said. It was selected over two other shows, Light Up the Sky and Ladies in Retirement, to be the summer production.

Dates for the presentation have been set for July 23 and 24.

"John Patrick, the author, is discriminating in his treatment and has a light humorous touch to army life, quite unlike the familiar practices of Hollywood," Hamilton said.

The show had an excellent run on Broadway and in England between 1945-47, Hamilton said, and the movie made from it was one of the best of the year.

Anyone interested in helping out with publicity, backstage, costumes or property are asked to see either Mr. Hamilton or David Weiss, technical director, in Simpkins Little theater, as help of this nature is needed.

Registration Figures Show 752 Total, 21 Per Cent Drop

Comparing the registration figures for this year's summer session of 752 students with last year's 960, a drop in enrollment of approximately 21 per cent, Prof. E. A. Atkinson, summer session director, pointed out that as expected, there has been a drop of 44 per cent from last year's summer session veteran enrollment.

In addition to the veteran enrollment decrease, there is a 12 per cent drop in non-veteran enrollment from last year. This year's registration of male students shows a 33 per cent drop, and the women's enrollment 6 per cent lower.

There are 682 men and 288 women registered this quarter for a ratio of over 2.3 men for each woman registered. Approximately 40 more students are expected to register during the quarter for conferences and workshops giving credit.

There are 159 new students, and 593 former students registered, of which the veteran enrollment is 255.

Placement Bureau Invites Teachers

Administrators attending the summer session are invited to call or stop by the Teacher Placement Bureau and talk over their teacher needs or problems, Paul Chumrau, director, said yesterday.

The bureau is located in Craig hall and keeps a list of both vacancies that are open and teachers who are available. Administrators may have vacancies in their staffs for the coming school year and may find the men or women they are looking for, or they may be interested in openings in their own field.

The services of the bureau are available to any person who has completed one quarter at MSU. Those who are not registered may do so at the end of summer session, if this is the first quarter in attendance at the University. Persons may be interested not only in a change of jobs, but also in keeping their papers up to date, Mr. Chumrau said.

MARY LAROM INSTRUCTING SPECIAL POTTERY CLASS

Mary Larom, visiting instructor in crafts, will instruct pottery as a Student Union activity each Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30. Students interested in attending any of the sessions should sign up in advance in Cyrille Van Duser's office in the Student Union.

A charge of $1 for each two-hour sessions is necessary, Miss Van Duser said, as it is a special activity and not a credit course. The pottery shop is located behind the stage of the Student Union auditorium.

Summer Session Recreation Plans planned by the recreation office. This trip will be planned for the latter part of the summer session. Softball Schedule Starts

The summer session athletic program will commence this evening with the girls of New hall engaging in a softball battle with the boys of North hall. The game will start at 7 o'clock at Clover Bowl field No. 1, north of North hall.

Ping pong, shuffleboard, and pool tournaments will be held in the recreation room of the Student Union if the students wishing to participate will sign up with recreation leaders in the residence halls.

"The recreation room will open any time there is a call for its use," Mr. Wright said. The key to the room may be obtained from either the recreation director or the night clerk in the Student Union business office.

Mr. Wright has asked persons who are interested in going on a picnic trip to Lolo Hot Springs Sunday to sign up at the recreation office.

J. V. Dusenberry, McCaig, Picked As MIA Officers

J. Verne Dusenberry of Bozeman was elected by the board of directors to succeed Paul A. Grieder of Bozeman as president of the Montana Institute of the Arts. Robert McCaig of Great Falls was named temporary state vice-president, to succeed James E. Dew, former Western district vice-president, and Carl Wilson, Eastern vice-president.

Morris Blake, Kalispell; Bo Brown, Havre, Mr. Dusenberry, and Mr. McCaig were named to two-year terms as directors-at-large. Dr. H. G. Merriam of Missoula and Mr. Grieder were named to serve on the advisory council along with Peter Meloy, Helena; Branson Stevenson, Great Falls; and Norman Fox, Great Falls.

Other officers will be named at a meeting of the board of directors later in the fall, to be held either in Great Falls or Helena.

Shoemaker and Hoynes Are Fulbright Winners

Nan Shoemaker, Missoula, and Duane Hoynes, Malta, have been awarded scholarships to study abroad under provisions of the Fulbright Act, announced Dr. H. J. Wunderlich, campus Fulbright program adviser.

Miss Shoemaker will study at the University of Sheffield in Sheffield, England as one of approximately 200 grants to study in the United Kingdom. Hoynes will study at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark as one of 28 grants to study in Denmark.

Students Talk to Hollywood Stars

eral years, I can see that Hollywood is much the same as other American communities," she said. "Most movie-goers entertain fantastic illusions of the Hollywood scene," she said.

Both Miss Reed and Mr. Wagner admitted that their primary purpose for touring the country was to promote the motion picture industry, but they added that every actor welcomes the opportunity to visit the consumers of the Hollywood product.

Mr. Wagner said that it is essential that actors and actresses meet and talk with the people they portray on the screen so that they can produce a life-like and convincing portrayal of the characters.

Mr. Diamond explained in detail the peculiarities of screen fantasy which are constant sources of problems to the movie makers. He said that movies are a form of escape from reality for the movie goers, but the methods of determining what particular method of escape the movie goers "are in the mood for" are extremely complex.

FASSO GETS SCHOLARSHIP TO COMPLETE MASTER'S

Theodore E. Fasso, MSU graduate student in social work, has been selected to receive a $1,600 scholarship to complete the second year of his work for his master's degree at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo.

NORTH HALL RESIDENTS OFFER TEA INVITATION

North hall residents are inviting all students and faculty members to an informal tea Friday afternoon at 4 in North hall.

Teachers, Students Take Driver Training Instruction

"We are anxious to have people that do not know how to drive and are willing to learn by prescribed methods to register in Room 207 of the Business-Education building as soon as possible," Driver's training instructor Arthur Roseberry said today.

Roseberry said that anyone who is 15 years old or older can register for a six-week course that will teach them how to drive. There is no charge for the course, and any student or non-student that meets the age requirement can sign up for the course.

These pupils will be taught the fundamentals of safety as well as the actual driving of the car by high school teachers who are enrolled in the Safety Education and Driver Training course here at the University.

The purpose of this course is to instruct high school teachers who are going to teach driver training in their high schools. It is a prescribed

SU Movies Will Start Next Week

The first of a series of four Museum of Modern Art movies will be shown next Wednesday in the Student Union theater at 7:30, Cyril Van Duser, Student Union manager, said yesterday.

Wednesday's screen performance will feature the Marx brothers in "Duck Soup," and "The Barber Shop," with W. C. Fields.

After the showing of the picture, summer session students will have an opportunity to meet and talk with several of the university officers at an informal reception in the Student Union lounge.

Pres. Carl McFarland, Prof. E. A. Atkinson, director of the summer session, Vice-pres. R. H. Jesse, and Faculty Dean G. B. Castle will talk with the students.

The following week a series of three documentary pictures will be shown. "The City," "The Land," and "The River," are the documentaries depicting the life and growth of Americans and their relations with the soil, the cities, and the rivers.

Will Rogers will star in "David Harum" July 16. The companion feature stars Robert Benchley in "The Sex Life of Polyp" (an octopus, of course).

Tickets for the series are being sold in Miss Van Duser's office for $1.20. Committee members in the residence halls will also sell tickets for the pictures.

cribed course set up by the American Automobile association, and includes a complete survey of work that has already been done in the drivers training field, including the teaching of adults and smaller children as well as high school students.

Roseberry especially stressed the teaching of these smaller children, who are often unfamiliar with the safety procedure of bicycle riding, roller skating, and other traffic activities. He said, "I believe that we are not reaching low enough in our present training system, where ages are concerned, and we should start teaching the fundamentals of safety down at the grade school level."

Next week's training session will feature Captain Bodly Vacura of the Montana State Highway Patrol. July 14, John Urlab of Berkeley, Calif., high school will be on the campus. Urlab was here last year.

Film Service Will Show Previews

Teachers, school administrators, and other audio-visual aid enthusiasts can attend the Film Preview Service showing of films that is offered all during summer session by the School of Education in cooperation with the State Film Library.

These film previews will feature the showing of special films upon request, as well as demonstration of special types of visual aids.

The previews are open to any student who wishes to attend and all the films shown will be educational in nature.

Below is this week's list of films and the times at which they will be shown. The list will be published as a special service in each week's Summer Session Sun. The films will be shown daily from 4 to 5 p.m. in Room 111 of the Business-Education building.

Bjorkland to Flathead For Fish Research

Richard Bjorkland '51 will continue research work this summer at the Flathead lake biological station financed by a $300 scholarship established by the Western Montana Fish and Game association, according to Dr. Gordon B. Castle, director of the station.

Work so far has resulted in increased understanding of food habits of several species of fish, as well as migrations of fish in the lake.

P-TA Ends Two-Day Session

Dr. Dean Lobaugh, assistant superintendent of schools at Eugene, Ore., keynoted the seventh annual Parent-Teacher conference Monday afternoon by discussing the 10 things that make a man.

According to Dr. Lobaugh, man's physical heritage, his natural and geographic setting, his traditions, moral environment, formal education, religious training, his peers, work, and family make the man. Of these, the most important is the family, because the family affects all the other items.

The other highlight of the afternoon session was a social drama which was an unrehearsed demonstration of the technique of developing group participation through role playing. Bert B. Hansen, university coordinator of community affairs; Dr. Harold Tascher of the University sociology department; Joel Donovan and John Swift of the state mental hygiene clinic; and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong, state P-TA committee chairman, were central figures.

Chairman John A. Harris of the University social work department, presided for the evening program. Dr. James E. Short of the University education school was panel chairman, and Dr. Lobaugh summarized the discussion.

At the morning session on Tuesday Dr. Lobaugh spoke on the theme, "Not By Bread Alone." He said that today "we seldom see an undernourished or unhealthy child, but this is not enough." He went on to say that if a child is to grow up properly he must be brought up in a family where he can receive love, help to grow, and protection; he will feel he is a part of the family, and where he will be disciplined and can grow into a well adjusted child.

The afternoon session was presided over by Floyd Marchus of Martinez, Calif., director for the Contra Costa county schools. Following the opening formalities, groups that had been in discussion during the morning reported. These groups had discussed the question, "What Is the American Home Contributing to the Mental, Spiritual, Physical and Emotional Development of the Child?"

In his closing remarks of the afternoon session, Dr. Lobaugh summed up the accomplishments of the conference. He said that through P-TA, American parents can achieve a better understanding of children's problems and find ways of developing better and healthier children, spiritually, emotionally, physically, and mentally.

David Davidson Will Teach Short Story, Novel Writing

David Davidson, author of the best-selling novel, "The Steeper Cliff," will teach the writing of the novel and the short story at MSU from July 14 to Aug. 22, Dr. H. G. Merriam, head of the department of English, announced.

Mr. Davidson is the author of two other novels, "The Hour of

DAVID DAVIDSON

Truth," a Fiction Book club selection, and "In Another Country," as well as many short stories and radio and television scripts.

A graduate of the Columbia school of journalism, he spent 10 years as a reporter, mostly with the New York Post. He served for two years with the Office of Inter-American Affairs in Washington, New York and Ecuador. During play a work from a contemporary composer, Poulenc. The piece will be "Trois Pieces pour Piano." Poulenc just recently completed a tour of this country.

Funny-Bone Crab

Mr. Abel will take over again for the fifth and last part of the evening's program. He will play first "Slavic Fantasy" by Hohné and then play an original composition called "Funny-Bone Crab."

Mr. Abel came back from lunch one day and promptly sat down and wrote a 16-line poem. The inspiration came from reading Lewis Carroll's "Jabberwocky." Mr. Abel then attempted to poke fun at modern composers and he wrote "Funny-Bone Crab." When he put it to music it turned out better than he expected.

This evening Mr. Abel will first read the poem and then play the Crab, which to musicians means a piece of music that is played to the halfway mark and then played backwards so that both the beginning and the end are the same.

1945-46, he worked as a civilian with the army information control in Germany, where he helped establish six democratic newspapers in Bavaria.

Former Radio Panelist

Recently, he completed 39 weeks as a regular panelist for the worldwide Voice of America broadcast, "What's on Your Mind?" He has held a Pulitzer traveling scholarship and has been a fellow at the Middlebury (Breadloaf) school of English.

While teaching, he will also serve as a visiting lecturer at the Writers Conference, July 30 to Aug. 8. "This seems an opportunity for writers to get expert criticism," Dr. Merriam said. "Not only can they take credit courses in the novel and short story, but as summer session students they will be welcome at all sessions of the Writers' Conference without charge."

Training School Opens Monday

A three-day Custodial Training school opens Monday, June 30, at 12:30 in Forestry 201.

An invitation to school administrators and building custodial personnel to attend these special sessions, was extended today by James E. Short, assistant professor of education. He pointed out that emphasis will be placed upon the correct procedures for good maintenance of buildings.

L. O. (Tommy) Thompson, consultant and custodian instructor of Redondo Beach, Calif., is coming to Missoula to conduct the school.

Registration begins at 12:30 Monday in Forestry 201. There is no charge for the school. The schedule: Monday, June 30, 1-4 p.m.; Tuesday, July 1, 9-12 a.m., 1-4 p.m.; Wednesday, July 2, 1-4 p.m. (afternoon only).

DR. JEFF MINCKLER GETS DUNCAN AWARD

Dr. Jeff Minckler '37, medical director of Providence hospital in Portland, Ore., has been selected as the first recipient of the Stella Duncan Memorial award which provides $4,000 to an alumnus of MSU for the study of bronchial asthma.
